You'll never forget
your first sleepover
or your next mammogram

promise to me.com

She was the most popular girl in the third grade. So when she invited you to your first sleepover, you were in shock. And scared out of your leggings.

Why you? Would you be homesick? Did she know you were allergic to bananas? And actually liked math? But when she met you at the door with a big hug, and grabbed your hand, you knew. You'd be best friends forever.

Now it's time for you to flip through your old address book and ask all of your lifelong girlfriends to get a mammogram. Tell them to forget the excuses and make the promise.
